CONSTRUCTION UPDATE

The major news on site in this period is that the scaffold has started to be dismantled from roof level down. The first section is to the west elevation, and we are planning to strike more over the weekend when traffic management to the Wolfson Road area below can be more easily managed.

We have now scaffolded around all three of the chimneys, allowing the flues and cladding work to commence. The electricity meters have now been installed off the new UKPN supply, making power available for when we start commissioning.

The balustrading has commenced on the southern escape staircore, and the final section of the atrium main stair is being installed. This will allow work on the surrounding partitions to commence, as well enabling the illuminated handrail sections of the balustrade to be attached.

At ground floor reception level, the revolving door and its enclosure has been fixed and is in the process of being protected.

On the eighth floor plantroom level, pipework and power cabling to the large items of plant is now underway, and the ductwork and mechanical services are progressing.

On the first floor, all available rooms have been air leak tested and ceilings are in the process of being plastered, whilst ceiling installations are now continuing on levels two through to five.

FUNDRAISING SPOTLIGHT

Today, the site held a “coffee morning” fundraising exercise to raise money for the Macmillan Cancer Research “World Biggest Coffee Morning”. Most of the money raised is via QR code to our Justgiving donation page and we will confirm how much we have contributed when the event is over. If you want to contribute, our Justgiving page is still open and we would appreciate any donations for this very good cause.
